

---

Joint Commission accreditation program can use any of the following statements when publicizing and

- [Name of organization] has attained advanced certification by The Joint Commission. This means
  - provides the next generation of orthopedic care
  - has met and seeks to maintain The Joint Commission's high standards in providing orthopedic care

Verification of compliance, leading program should include the following information for orthopedic program

- Include information regarding your certification in your patient literature or on your website.
- Include an announcement or feature story in your internal and external publications.
- Encourage your leaders to speak about your certification at conferences and in other venues.
- Display your certification in a poster or banner placed in a prominent place in your organization or on a billboard or exterior building sign.
- Display pamphlets, posters and table tent cards in your organization.