

Peer Performance The Joint Commission Service Process

What makes The Joint Commission the accrediting body of choice for so many organizations in behavioral health and human services?

The accreditation experience with the Joint Commission has been a positive one for us. We've had a great relationship with the Joint Commission and have received a lot of feedback from them. We've had the opportunity to work with them on a number of projects and have been able to improve our performance. The Joint Commission has been a great partner in our journey to excellence.

Chelsea Collins, Director of Performance Improvement and Accreditation, Rosecrance

The Joint Commission has been a great partner in our journey to excellence. We've had a great relationship with the Joint Commission and have received a lot of feedback from them. We've had the opportunity to work with them on a number of projects and have been able to improve our performance. The Joint Commission has been a great partner in our journey to excellence.

Diane Butcher, Chief Operating Officer, The Renfrew Center

Having a Joint Commission accreditation is a great achievement. We've had a great relationship with the Joint Commission and have received a lot of feedback from them. We've had the opportunity to work with them on a number of projects and have been able to improve our performance. The Joint Commission has been a great partner in our journey to excellence.